DAPPER TOM BALTIMORE CLIPPER
During the early 19th century, many Baltimore clippers were granted privateering licenses by the US government. Since all commerce was subject to the legalized banditry, only a fast, well handled ship could be reasonably sure of reaching its destination. Privateers like the Dapper Tom depended on their sailing abilities and fire power to prey on foreign shipping and to escape the British men-of-war patrolling the high seas. Historically accurate and perfectly scaled kit features a machine carved basswood hull, ready-to-use wood, brass and cast Britannia metal fittings. Detailed plans and clear assembly instructions make building easy.

ELSIE, AMERICAN FISHING SCHOONER 1910
Duilt in 1910 at the Arthur D. Story shipyard in Essex, Massachusetts, Elsie was designed with a semi-knockabout schooner rig, reflecting the influence of the safer, but costlier, knockabout schooners. She was outfitted with power after her 1921 race with the Canadian schooner Bluenose.

Our kit is based on surveys by naval architect and historian, Howard Chapelle, plus photographs and contemporary descriptions of the original vessel. Machine carved basswood hull reduces building time. Individual deck planking strips, true to scale wood, brass and cast Britannia metal fittings assure a highly detailed and historically accurate model. Instruction book concentrates on modeling techniques for 1/8” scale, with emphasis on rigging and its simplification for this small scale. KATE CORY WHALING BRIG
The 132-ton whaling brig Kate Cory was built at Westport Point, MA in 1856. Originally riged as a schooner, she was converted to a brig in 1858. This rig made for smoother motion in heavy seas and steadied the ship while the crew was cutting in whales. After only five voyages, she was captured by the CSS Alabama and burned off the coast of Brazil in 1863. Historically accurate and perfectly scaled kit features a machine carved basswood hull, ready-to-use wood, brass and cast Britannia metal fittings. Genuine copper sheathing covers the hull below the waterline. Detailed plans and clear assembly instructions make building easy.

EMMA C. BERRY LOBSTER SMACK
The Emma C. Berry is a true plank-on-frame model, using beech and basswood for strips and beams. The keel and ribs are just some of the parts that have been laser-cut, making for easier construction. Deadeyes and blocks are made out of walnut. As a sloop rigged vessel with a large mainsail, two headsails and a gaff topsail, the Berry kit also contains over 50 yards of black and gray (standing & running) rigging line. This would have been used to support and manipulate her double head sail gaff sloop rig.

Model Shipways’ kit is based on drawings and documentation provided by the Henry B. DuPont Preservation Shipyard at Mystic Seaport. The kit offers true plank-on-frame construction with the same number of true-to-scale frames as the original. The frames are erected with the hull upright, just like a real ship. Although a bit more difficult than building it upside down, this permits the addition of many inboard details.

Model Shipways’ kit contains laser cut wooden parts, basswood hull planking strips and wood stock for launching ways. A host of finely cast Britannia metal fittings and anchor shank. Brass is used for eyebolts, rings, chain and wire. Walnut blocks and deadeyes come in five sizes, and 50 yards of black and gray line are provided for accurate rigging. Four sheets of plans and 40 page instruction manual by kit designer and naval architect Ben Lankford record every detail of construction. Length 26-3/8” / Height 28-1/2” / Scale 3/8” = 1 ft (1:32)

GUNBOAT PHILADELPHIA 1776 1:24 SCALE
Launched in August of 1776, the gunboat Philadelphia is the oldest American fighting vessel in existence. Part of the American fleet commanded by General Benedict Arnold, she sank on October 11, 1776 during the Battle of Valcour Island against the Royal Navy on Lake Champlain. She remained sitting upright in the cold waters of the lake until she was raised in 1935. Today, she’s on permanent exhibit at the Smithsonian Museum in Washington, D.C., complete with 24-pound ball that sent her to the bottom.

Model Shipways’ kit is relatively easy to build, thanks to CAD-assisted laser-cut basswood parts, which come in a variety of thicknesses from 3/32” to 1/8”. Fine basswood is also used for hull and deck planking. An unusual feature of this model is that the hull is planked inside and out.

A host of fittings ensures that the model you’ll build is authentic to the last detail. Masterfully cast Britannia metal guns are miniature versions of the original armament. Brass nails, eyebolts, belaying pins and split rings are correctly scaled, and a photo-etched sheet of detail parts adds the finishing touches.

U.S.N. PICKET BOAT NO. 1, 1864
THE BOAT THAT SUNK THE ALBEMARLE
Picket Boat Number One, a steam launch, was built in 1864 to support the U.S. Navy’s blockade of the Confederacy. Outfitted with a spar-torpedo, she could also attack larger enemy vessels. On the dark night of 27-28 October 1864, Lieutenant William B. Cushing and his crew took Picket Boat Number One up river to Plymouth, North Carolina. In one of the Civil War’s most daring naval actions, they attacked the Confederate ironclad Albemarle, sinking it with the spar torpedo. Only Lt. Cushing and one other man escaped, and Picket Boat Number One was lost, but the Union forces on the North Carolina sounds were freed of the great threat presented by the continued existence of the Albemarle.

Model Shipways’ historically accurate kit recreates Picket Boat No. 1 in great detail. Plans are taken from research done by the History Channel for its 2005 program, “The Most Daring Mission of the Civil War”.

Laser-cut basswood parts facilitate plank-on-frame interior construction. High quality, flexible basswood strips are supplied for hull planking. Britannia metal fittings, brass and aluminum parts are used for deck furnishings, including a miniature steam engine, pump and 12-pounder Dahlgren Howitzer.

USS ESSEX, 1799 FRIGATE

The 32-gun frigate USS Essex was built in Salem, Massachusetts in 1799. She was known around the world for her speed and graceful lines, achieving many dramatic firsts for the young American Navy.

Model Shipways’ kit is relatively easy to build, thanks to CAD-assisted laser-cut basswood parts, which come in a variety of thicknesses from 3/32” to 1/8”. Fine basswood is also used for hull and deck planking. An unusual feature of this model is that the hull is planked inside and out. A host of fittings ensures that the model you’ll build is authentic to the last detail. Cast Britannia metal guns are miniature versions of the original armament. Brass nails, eyebolts, belaying pins and split rings are correctly scaled, and a photo-etched sheet of detail parts adds the finishing touches. Deadeyes, blocks and bullseyes are ready-to-use hardwood. Six diameters of rigging line are also included. Six sheets of plans and clearly written instruction manual guarantee a great modeling experience.

Length 26-3/8”/Width 13-3/4”/Height 24-5/8”/Scale 1:76 (5/32” = 1 ft.)

NEW! - US FRIGATE CONFEDERACY 1778 ADMIRALTY MODEL
We’ve designed our kit as an admiralty model as well to show off the incredibly rich detail of its decks, furnishings and fittings. Additionally, the quarter-deck is left un-planked on the port side, leaving the great cabin and gun deck visible. Plank-on-bulkhead construction features laser cut basswood and walnut components, including port sills, lintels and uprights. We supply nearly 400 basswood and walnut strips, over 250 boxwood blocks and deadeyes and 300 eyebolts. Other fittings include brass strips, tubes, nails and split rings; cast metal ship’s wheel and anchors; blackened wire and four diameters of rigging line. Twenty-eight cast Britannia 12-pounder cannon and 4 six-pounders on wooden carriages replicate Confederacy’s armament. Figurehead, stern decorations and other ornamental pieces are also cast metal. Two realistically detailed ship’s boats are plank-on-bulkhead mini-kits with the center bulkheads removed, leaving fully framed shells lashed to skid beams. Kit includes laser cut display cradle. Designed by master modeler Chuck Passaro, Model Shipways’ Confederacy is a monumental achievement. Five sheets of plans leave no detail unrecorded, and the 150-page illustrated step-by-step instruction manual is the most complete ever done. Hull length 35”/Height 8-1/2”/Scale 3/16” = 1 ft. NEW ITEM! RATLINER - THE SHROUD BUILDING TOOL
First the question: What’s a Ratline? It is a nautical term used to describe a rope ladder upon which sailors scampered up to the lower yards to furl or unfurl sails. The Ratline usually stopped at the lowest yard and from there a “Jacob’s Ladder (also made of rope) was used to get to the higher yards and the top of the mast.

How does the Ratliner work? Not much different than a loom used to weave cloth or rugs … but far more simple. Just follow the step-by-step instructions after selecting the Ratliner that corresponds closest to the scale of the model ship you are building. Ratliners come in 3 different scale ranges: MS7201 Scales 1:76 to 1:90, MS7202 for scale 1:64, or close to it and MS7203 for scales 1:35 to 1:48. If the scale of the model ship you are building doesn’t fall exactly within those ranges … not to worry. Even being as close as 10-15% will be good.

Nothing works as well as our Ratliner to produce accurately scaled ratlines in the shortest possible time. You will never use another method or tool.

How is a Ratliner made? After testing many different plywoods, acrylics, plastic sheets we discovered that 1/4” thick MDF (Medium Density Fibreboard) was the most stable, easy to laser-cut and durable material available with the added advantage of low cost. You’ll find that your Ratliner has hundreds of laser cut slots and holes. So many, that our most powerful laser-cutting machine takes a full 30 minutes to produce but one Ratliner. Appreciate the complexity and utility of this tool.

The longboat was the largest boat aboard an 18th century ship. A full bow, high sides and fine aft lines made it exceptionally seaworthy in heavy winds and steep waves. The interior was fitted with thwarts to accommodate eight to ten oarsmen. Longboats were always fully provisioned, ready to meet any emergency. Many were equipped with a removable mast and sails. Some were armed for protection against pirates or enemy attacks.

Our kit captures every detail of an original armed longboat. True plank-on-frame construction uses nine sheets of laser-cut basswood and over 60 basswood strips and dowels. Thirty-six precision cast Britannia metal (lead-free pewter) detail parts duplicate every fitting, including the cannon and swivel guns. Split rings, rods, eyebolts, nails, parrels and belaying pins are machined brass. Thirty-four yards of jeweler’s grade no-stretch nylon rigging comes in five diameters. Twenty-two ready-to-use walnut blocks and deadeyes complement the rigging lines. Photo-etched brass bulwark and transom decorations add life-like detail to a beautiful model.

Three 34” x 44” plans are true to model size. The 48-page step-by-step instruction manual with over 130 color photos covers every phase of construction.
